CURRICULUM VITAE

Professor Dr. Ansgar Zerfass holds the Chair of Strategic Communication at the Institute for Communication and Media Studies at Leipzig University, Germany. Founded in 1916, the institute is the oldest institute in the field in Germany. He has been a Visiting Professor at Hong Kong Baptist University and Bournemouth University, among others, and he serves as Professor of Communication and Leadership (II) at BI Norwegian Business School in Oslo since 2013.

Dr. Zerfass studied business administration, communication science, and information systems at FAU University Erlangen-Nuremberg, Bavaria. He graduated in management (Dipl.-Kfm.) with an acclaimed thesis on corporate ethics and started his academic career as a research associate with Prof. Dr. Dr. h. c. mult. Horst Steinmann at the Chair of Strategic Management in Nuremberg. He gained a doctorate in business administration (Dr. rer. pol.) summa cum laude. Afterwards, he worked in the practice for 10 years in the fields of corporate communications and political consulting. He held an executive management position at MFG Baden-Württemberg in Stuttgart, the federal state's center of excellence for information technology and media. At the same time, he achieved a Habilitation (second doctorate / postdoctoral qualification) in communication science at FAU University Erlangen-Nuremberg under the mentorship of Prof. Dr. Dr. h. c. Winfried Schulz. He works at Leipzig University since 2006, initially as a full Professor of Communication Management and since 2014 as Chair Professor for Strategic Communication. Various offers by other renowned universities, including an Endowed Chair at the USC Annenberg School of Communication, Los Angeles, were turned down. In Leipzig, he directs the Master Communication Management program, which, according to various rankings, is continuously ranked number one among all graduate programs in the field in the German-speaking countries since 2007.

His research topics include strategic communication, corporate communications, communication management and evaluation, digital communication, and international communication. Current projects include the analysis and optimization of business models for communication departments, a theoretical modeling of the digital infrastructure for corporate communications, and the interdisciplinary analysis of trends and innovations for communication management. In addition, the codification of international knowledge and management tools for corporate communications is driven supported through several handbook projects in German, English and Chinese. With the Global Communication Monitor, he has been leading the world's largest study series on communication management with empirical surveys in more than 80 countries since 2007.

Dr. Zerfass is Chairman of the Executive Board at the Academic Society for Management & Communication, a non-profit think tank that combines the commitment of 50 international companies and several universities to promote cutting-edge research and knowledge transfer in the field of corporate communications.

Current board, advisory board and editorial activities of Dr. Zerfass include roles as Editor of the International Journal of Strategic Communication (Routledge/Taylor & Francis, USA); Plank Scholar at the Plank Center for Leadership in Public Relations at the University of Alabama, USA; Academic Adviser of the Austrian Society for Communication and Reputation (KomRep), Vienna, Austria; Co-Founder and Academic Partner of the Nordic Alliance for Communication & Management (#NORA), Oslo, Norway; Member of the Academic Committee of the International Corporate Communication Hub, Milan, Italy; Executive Lecturer at the RSM Rotterdam School of Management at Erasmus University, Rotterdam, The Netherlands; Member of the Academic Advisory Group of the Association for the Measurement and Evaluation of Communication (AMEC), London, UK; Chairman of the Jury of the Integrated Communication Award at F.A.Z.-Institute, a subsidiary of the leading German national newspaper Frankfurter Allgemeine Zeitung, Frankfurt am Main; and Editor of the seminal edition "Handbuch Unternehmenskommunikation" (Handbook of Corporate Communications) with more than 5 million downloads in three editions to date, published by Springer Gabler. He served for many years as Member of the Board of Directors and Chair of the Public Relations Division of the International Communication Association (ICA), Washington, D.C.; President and Board Member of the European Public Relations Education and Research Association (EUPRERA), Brussels, Belgium, and as Chairman of the Jury of the International German PR Award organized by the German Public Relations Association (DPRG). He is a member of the Academy of Management, ICA, ECREA, EUPRERA, DGPUK, DPRG, and DNWE.
